Part 1 –The Spiritual Subversion of the American State

Position Paper – Faith, Prayer and Power Stuggle for Divine Intervention

A Visual Reflection: Beyond Flesh and Blood

Images, such as one depict at top, is a way of visually portraying the biblical truth of Ephesians 6:12—that the real battle is not merely political, cultural, or human, but spiritual in nature.

The figures represented are not the ultimate focus; rather, they serve as examples of how influence, authority, and even religious leadership can be shaped or misdirected by unseen spiritual forces. The shadowed figure with strings symbolizes this hidden influence, reminding the viewer that what appears outwardly may have deeper spiritual implications.

The contrasting presence of the cross at the center represents the only true source of light, truth, and authority—Christ Himself—standing in opposition to deception and misplaced devotion.

The references to Isaiah 8:19 and 2 Timothy 4:3 reinforce the warning:

- against seeking spiritual guidance from the wrong sources,
- and against embracing teachings that depart from sound doctrine.

Overall, the image calls the viewer to discernment, urging a return to God's Word as the standard of truth, and a recognition that the greatest danger is not always what is seen, but what is spiritually at work behind it.

With this framework in mind, we now turn to the present realities shaping both the Church and the world.

Introduction

The current geopolitical and ecclesiastical landscape is not the result of mere political happenstance; it is the fruit of a calculated spiritual insurgency. As the Apostle Paul writes:

> Ephesians 6:12 – "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

The appointment of individuals like Mike Huckabee and Paula White-Cain, combined with the aggressive push for conflict with Iran, reveals a deep, orchestrated betrayal of the Christian faith in favor of a secularized, dispensationalist political agenda.

I. The Theological Corruption: From Christ to the Ohel

The public spectacle of Mike Huckabee—a man once ordained to preach the Gospel—kneeling at the Ohel to pray to the deceased Menachem Mendel Schneerson is a defining moment of apostasy.

What is the Ohel?
Chabad defines the Ohel as the structure built over the resting place of Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson. It presents the site as a place where visitors come to pray to God, leave written requests, and seek blessing or spiritual guidance in connection with the rabbi's gravesite.

- The Rejection of the Savior: The deceased Rabbi Schneerson himself was a fierce opponent of the Christian faith, viewing the Trinity as idolatrous

Judaism and the Trinity
In traditional rabbinic Judaism, the doctrine of the Trinity is rejected as incompatible with strict monotheism. In its presentation of Ramban's disputation, Chabad describes the Trinity as "outright idol worship," reflecting the longstanding Jewish position that

- The Erasure of the Church: This act signals that the “Christian” political class no longer views the Church as the true Israel (Galatians 3:28, 6:16

). Instead, they have redefined the faith to accommodate those who reject Christ, effectively rendering the Great Commission obsolete.

II. The Institutionalization of Apostasy: Paula White-Cain

The inclusion of Paula White-Cain as a "Spiritual Advisor" to the President is an assault on the biblical structure of the ekklesia.

- The Apostolic Standard: Scripture is explicit regarding the qualifications for those who provide spiritual oversight. 1 Timothy 2:12 and 1 Timothy 3:1–7 restrict the office of the pastor/elder to men who meet specific character and household qualifications.
- The Prosperity Gospel Distraction: Her theology, which prioritizes material favor over the sanctification and suffering of the saints, serves to sanitize a political administration that is fundamentally indifferent to the Law of God. By placing such a figure in the "Faith Office," the political establishment ensures that the voice of the Church is replaced by a secularized, prosperity-focused echo chamber that legitimizes worldly power.

III. The Scofield Deception: The Engine of Error

The “brainwashing” of the American populace regarding Israel is not accidental; it is the product of a century of systematic indoctrination through the Scofield Reference Bible.

- The Scofield Proofs of Error: The footnotes of the Scofield Bible introduced a dual-covenant theory that has no basis in the New Testament. Specifically:
    - The Promise to the Land: Scofield's notes treat the promises to Abraham as perpetually tied to a physical, ethnic territory, ignoring the New Testament reality that these promises are fulfilled in Christ and His body (Galatians 3:16).
    - The Distinction of Israel: Scofield created a false wall between "the Church" and "Israel," suggesting God has a separate, non-Christian path for ethnic descendants of Jacob. This directly contradicts Ephesians 2:14–16, where Paul declares that Christ has "broken down the middle wall of partition" and made both "one new man."
    - The Eschatological Trap: These notes train the believer to view the modern state of Israel as the literal, prophetic fulfillment of Scripture, thereby binding their conscience to a foreign nation that has no standing in the New Covenant.

IV. The Iran Conflict: Weaponized Eschatology

The current political maneuvering to force a confrontation with Iran is the ultimate expression of this dispensationalist delusion.

- Manufacturing Fulfillment: There is a subset of the political-Zionist elite that views the modern Middle East through a lens of apocalyptic necessity. By engineering a war with Iran, they believe they are "hastening" the conditions for the return of Christ—a blasphemous attempt to manipulate the sovereignty of God for a political outcome.

- The “Chosen” Lobby: Any appointee who questions the necessity of this conflict is immediately purged, as they are seen as an impediment to the “prophetic” goal of securing a Greater Israel. This is why the administration is stacked with figures who prioritize Israeli interests over the protection of the American people.

V. The Spiritual Reality: A Battle for the Soul of the Nation

This is not merely bad policy; it is spiritual warfare. The “wicked one” utilizes these political structures to deceive the Church into abandoning its mandate. By convincing Christians that their spiritual destiny is tied to a secular ethnostate, the adversary has effectively neutralized the voice of the ekklesia.

- The Call to Repentance: The Church must wake up to the fact that the “Israel” of the Old Testament is fulfilled in Christ. Those who reject Him are not “God’s chosen” in the covenantal sense; they are souls in need of the same Gospel that every other person requires.
- The Duty to Disassociate: Christians are commanded to “have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness” (Ephesians 5:11). Supporting political figures who openly engage in pagan rituals at gravesites or who promote unbiblical pastoral roles is a rejection of our loyalty to Christ.

Conclusion

The “stinch” of this compromise is reaching a breaking point. The path forward for the faithful is to reject the Scofield-dispensationalist mythology and return to the bedrock of sound hermeneutics. We must rebuild our local assemblies on the exclusivity of the Cross, recognizing that our citizenship is in heaven, and our allegiance is to the King of Kings—not to a political party, a secular state, or a lobbyist masquerading as an advisor. The battle is for the truth, and the truth is that there is only one name under heaven by which we must be saved—and it is not the name of a Rabbi, nor a prosperity preacher, but Jesus Christ, who reigns above all.

Part 2 —The Great Deception: Prosperity Theology & Distortion of the Remnant

Introduction

The current religious landscape in America is increasingly dominated by figures who trade the biblical gospel for political influence and the idols of this age. Among the most prominent of these is Paula White, whose ministry serves as a primary example of how prosperity theology and Christian Zionism converge to serve the agendas of a globalist governing class. By manipulating the faithful into viewing foreign states as divine entities, these teachers provide the very “signs and wonders” that Christ warned would seduce many in the final days.

The Misuse of Genesis 12:3 as Political Cover

A hallmark of the modern Evangelical establishment is the constant invocation of Genesis 12:3—"I will bless those who bless you, and I will curse him who curses you"—to demand absolute, unquestioning loyalty to the modern state of Israel. Paula White, acting as a spiritual advisor within the highest levels of the American state, frequently weaponizes this verse to equate support for a secular, often anti-Christian political entity with faithfulness to God.

This is a profound hermeneutical error. The covenant promises given to Abraham find their ultimate fulfillment in Jesus Christ, the true seed of promise. As Galatians 3:28 and 3:29 confirm, the inheritance is not for those clinging to ethnic lineage or a modern, man-made nation-state, but for those who are in Christ. By decoupling Genesis 12:3 from the person of Christ and attaching it to a geopolitical entity, teachers like White distract the flock from the true Temple—the body of believers—and redirect their devotion toward a foreign political project that rejects the Lordship of Christ.

1 John 2:18 and the Reality of Apostasy

In these times, we are witnessing the onset of what the Apostle John described: "Children, it is the last hour, and as you have heard that antichrist is coming, so now many antichrists have come. Therefore we know that it is the last hour." (1 John 2:18).

Apostasy is not merely a shift in political opinion; it is a movement away from the truth of the Gospel. 1 John 2:19 provides the necessary clarity for the remnant: "They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would have continued with us." This confirms the biblical teaching on the perseverance of the saints. When religious leaders advocate for doctrines that supersede the Gospel—such as prosperity theology or the elevation of a nation-state above the Kingdom of God—they reveal exactly where their treasure lies. Their departure from sound doctrine is a manifestation of the apostasy that characterizes the "last hour."

The Warning of Matthew 24 and the Duty of the Elect

Matthew 24:24 and Mark 13:22 instruct the believer to be wary of those who perform "great signs and wonders" to deceive the elect. In our time, this "deception" is not limited to mystical apparitions; it is a systemic propaganda campaign. When a spiritual leader aligns with political powerbrokers like Benjamin Netanyahu to secure the interests of an earthly state, they are fulfilling the pattern of the false prophets of old.

The "elect" cannot lose their salvation, but they are absolutely tasked with the duty of discernment. To be "deceived" by such narratives is to allow one's conscience to be seared by worldly agendas rather than the Word of God. The remedy is the same as it was for the Bereans: examining the Scriptures daily, rejecting the "Judeo-Christian" synthesis as a modern fabrication, and keeping one's eyes firmly fixed on the Kingdom that is not of this world.

Conclusion: Returning to the Truth

The influence of figures like Paula White within the halls of power is a sign of a nation that has traded its Christian heritage for a hollow, political substitute. However, the mission of the true ekklesia remains unchanged. We are called to reject the false prophets who seek to bind our consciences to foreign states and unbiblical covenants. The path forward is not through supporting the political machinations of the globalist state, but through the rigorous study of the Word, the maintenance of the historic faith, and the recognition that in Christ alone do we find our true inheritance. As the world drifts deeper into the theater of the antichrist, the remnant must stand firm in the only truth that truly sets men free.
