Ecumenism: Are We Talking About the Same God and Gospel?

If someone were to talk to you about the Holy Spirit or Jesus Christ, would you automatically assume that he/she was a Christian? Would you question what they mean by specific terms, such as eternal life and the gospel? Ecumenism is on the rise, and it is evident in areas such as the New Apostolic Reformation. With the recent memorial service for Charlie Kirk, we saw this on display. Does this matter?
